

Soon

Written by
Saturday, 15 April 2006 16:00

Because of the ad changes, I am finding it difficult to make the text fit these pages.

Please, bear with me!

My Bride is confined in a prone position ensconced comfortably. She must remain in the Eurolounger, not able to stand up straight for the next 7-10 days.

When her brain defogs enough that I don't have to edit like mad, she will write about her ordeal. Until then she plays video games on her computer, naps and watches TV.

Her bed is 2/3 of the couch set up so that she cannot stretch out and she has been better rested. She is progressing very well, will survive her ordeal very nicely and can hardly wait to tell you all about it when she has less drugs in her system and fog in her head.

This pic I took of Susan last spring!!

PS She will be so pleased with the complimentary pictures I have been sharing!